Axpo signs services deal with Sollentuna Elhandel

Axpo has entered an agreement with Sollentuna Elhandel AB for the provision of specialist energy services commencing 1 October 2024, it was announced today. The agreement covers balance responsibility, physical supply and financial hedging for Sollentuna Elhandel's annual 220 GWh of electricity sales and 22 GWh of electricity generation.

Axpo's Senior Portfolio Manager Anna Öhberg from Axpo's office in Sweden said: "We're delighted to welcome Sollentuna Elhandel to our network of leading electricity retail companies. There's a lot happening in the electricity market right now and we look forward to offering them our expertise in, for example, ancillary services as well as supporting their development and growth as an electricity retailer."

Axpo's business in Sweden is a leading participant in the Nordic energy market, providing trading and balance responsibility services to electricity retailers, wind and solar power producers and industry.

Sollentuna Elhandel's Acting Business Area Manager Anders Holm-Melin said: "We look forward to developing our products and strengthening our offering in collaboration with Axpo, ensuring that we are able to continue delivering competitive electricity retail solutions to all our customers."
